

Product Publishing

Our cloud based software helps you connect with multiple vendors and manage all your ecommerce operations from a single platform

Automatically publish products directly from your vendors store with Onport. When you use our automation services, you no longer have to worry about updating your inventory to match that of your vendors', or editing product information.

Onport users can invite vendors to connect their stores to Onport, via our simple setup process. Once connected, you'll be able to see all your vendors' products at a glance. From there, you can publish vendors' products directly to your store.

Save time by mapping product attributes automatically. For example, for products with different sizing options (small, medium, large) you'll be able to automatically map vendor sizing to your store, keeping your data clean, concise and consistent.

Onport can even map product attributes for products which are already listed in your store. It really is all done for you.

Onport supports dozens of different platforms, for instance like Shopify and BigCommerce as well as many more.
